GRAP is the Amsterdam' foundation for pop music dedicated to promote and support young musical talent based in Amsterdam. GRAP advises and promotes artists, bands and acts and makes relevant information available to them. Also GRAP acts as an intermediary between local government and various organisations who share a common interest with GRAP's objectives.

GRAP is the driving force behind a number of competitions, showcases and festivals covering a wide range of genres of pop music, such as Wanted, the hip hop and R&B competition; Freestyle for the GRAP, the Dutch freestyle competition; the Amsterdamse Popprijs (Amsterdam Pop Award), competition for Amsterdam' popbands; Vinylized, the dance producer's competition; Mooie Noten (Beautiful Notes), the Amsterdam' pop song competition. Also, GRAP hosts bands at the Amsterdam Roots Festival and the Amsterdams Bevrijdingsfestival (annual Liberation Festival). Once a year GRAP puts together its own festival, Spelen voor de GRAP (Performing for the GRAP), offering up and coming talent a podium at the Melkweg (Amsterdam) one off Holland's most in demand stages.
